WORKING COVER

The first thing I do with every issue is change the cover. Even if it's not the photo we are going to use, to me it means a new month.

Again this month there was no question which photo would be the cover - Ashley from the lens of Clint Miller!!!!

Well, I'll just be damn...this girl just really doesn't give a shit does she? In the latest sexcapades from former child star (I always like to make a point of saying that) Miley Cyrus, she was "caught" walking in public wearing a mesh shirt which conveniently allowed on-lookers to get a good look at her boobies. WOW! It took me twenty years to get a look at Janet Jackson's! Oh, how times have changed.

From reality television to porn star? Courtney Stodden who is probably best known as the 16 year old, married to a 50 year old man that appeared on the reality show Couples Therapy has moved on to the next level, releasing a "sex tape" for Vivid.

Does anyone remember the Tommy and Pamela Lee sex tape? Now that was a sex tape! This offering from Courtney was produced by Stodden and because it's a solo venture...there's no sex! What the hell is that about? Note to Vivid: Stop releasing promo videos labeled sex tapes.

STORY OF THE MONTH

Deflate Gate! First, I'm a little disturbed that so many controversies are given the moniker that took down an American President, this is football for God's sake! That said, here is my take...who cares! Tom Brady was found "guilty" of having some knowledge of the footballs that had a lower psi...so? He was suspended for four games...and? None of this really matters! The suspension is equivalent to an injury and a slightly deflated football does nothing more than make it easier to hold on to. It doesn't increase accuracy, make the receiver catch it or stop a defense so who fucking cares. It's a just a big deal made over something that has little effect on the game.

"I love to roam, and I love to keep busy." She pitched and won 12 games, leading the New York Bunny softball team to the Broadway Show League championship. Q & A

Top Floor Magazine answers the questions submitted to the Playboy Advisor

My wife and I have been going to a strip club twice a month for the past year. She has become close to one of the dancers, who has given us her real name and e-mail address. The two of them go back to a private room to have private dances and do things that would seem to go beyond a normal lap dance. How do I ask the dancer without offending her to hook up with my wife outside of the club? - P.N., Chicago, Illinois

She won't be offended because she already has. Plus, you can look at this as a business transaction similar to a hairdresser. You are a regular, you are providing a steady cash flow when you're in the club so moving that outside of the club would be the equivalent of a hairdresser coming to your house to do your hair. She will still get the benefits of your visits to the club and once she has you "on the hook" so to speak, it's more likely that you will show up more often. Worst case scenario, she will say no. It's highly unlikely that that she will be offended, she IS in the sex business. That would be like a porn star being offended by your asking to have sex with her.

I have become friends with an attractive woman at work. She speaks freely with me about her new breast implants. How can I ask her to show them to me without destroying our friendship? - N.B., Bedford, Texas

My first thought is why would you want to see a set of fake breast? Not really sure what's going on with your life that something like that would be important, but...If you want to see them, don't ask her at work. Invite her out for drinks or maybe to some public outing and just bring it up. "Hey, you've been talking about them so much, let's have a look." It's nice and polite. The worse thing that could happen is she will say no. Or try to date her and see the whole package.

How to Skillet Fry a Steak

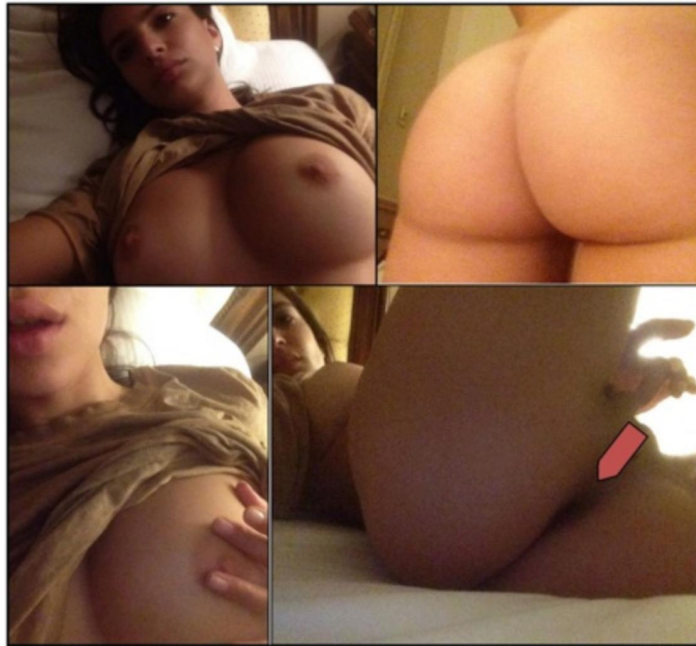

Let's face it, you can't always get to your grill when you want a great steak. Now worries, you can still dazzle folks with your culinary skills when the weather's not right for grilling.

What you need:

- Olive oil
- Kosher Salt
- Pepper
- Steaks
- Cast iron skillet

1. Turn skillet on medium heat, most say high but fuck that, you'll burn the steak
 2. Oil in the skillet and on the steaks (that are at room temperature) - followed by pepper then a nice amount of Kosher salt. The Kosher salt* gives it a nice crust.
 3. Fry 5-8 minutes per side. The timing really depends on the thickness of the steak. Which is why you don't want the heat on high. Thick is about 5 minutes for rare, 8 minutes for medium - well done is ridiculous. With thinner steaks 5 is still your bottom with 7 your top.
 4. Let rest for 5 minutes before cutting.
- * I heard (but haven't tried) coffee grinds make a good crust too. Enjoy!

EMILY RATAJKOWSKI

I'm sure you are already familiar with Emily from the hit unrated video Blurred Lines, right?

So then she announces that she is releasing a book that is SUPER DUPER SEXY →

The book features a number of nude photos and Emily in some compromising positions.

So, if that wasn't enough - she kicked it up a notch and leaked some extremely provocative photos to the web. At this point, I'm eliminating the word hacked because it happened so often and placing the blame solely on the celeb that took them.

It seems that Emily took a few selfies of her enjoying herself - some that are pretty graphic.

Enjoy!

INSIDIOUS: CHAPTER 3 JUNE 5TH

The newest chapter in the terrifying horror series is written and directed by franchise co-creator Leigh Whannell.

This chilling prequel, set before the haunting of the Lambert family, reveals how gifted psychic Elise Rainier (Lin Shaye) reluctantly agrees to use her ability to contact the dead in order to help a teenage girl (Stefanie Scott) who has been targeted by a dangerous supernatural entity.

IN THEATRES NOW

Tomorrowland

The film is about a teenage girl (Casey Newton), a genius middle-aged man (Frank Walker), and a pre-pubescent girl robot (Raffey Cassidy) who attempts to get to and unravel what happened to Tomorrowland, which exists in an alternative dimension, in order to save the world.

Poltergeist

Described as a revisionist take on the classic horror film in which a family struggling to make ends meet relocates to an outdated suburban home and is confronted by an angry spirit who kidnaps their youngest daughter and challenges them to band together to rescue her from the clutches of evil.

Ditch Perfect 2

With just one chance left at redeeming their legacy, the Bellas must fight for their right to win the World Championships of A Cappella in Copenhagen. And as they struggle to balance the pressures of musical domination with senior angst, it will take the power of sisterhood to find their voice.

Selma

Although the Civil Rights Act of 1964 legally desegregated the South, discrimination was still rampant in certain areas, making it very difficult for blacks to register to vote. In 1965, an Alabama city became the battleground in the fight for suffrage. Despite violent opposition, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. (David Oyelowo) and his followers pressed forward on an epic march from Selma to Montgomery, and their efforts culminated in President Lyndon Johnson signing the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

I was critical of this film due to the timing of its release at first but it was worth a second look. It's still tough to watch (due to its content) and historically patchy but a Great film.

Available On Demand and from Redbox

All is by My Side

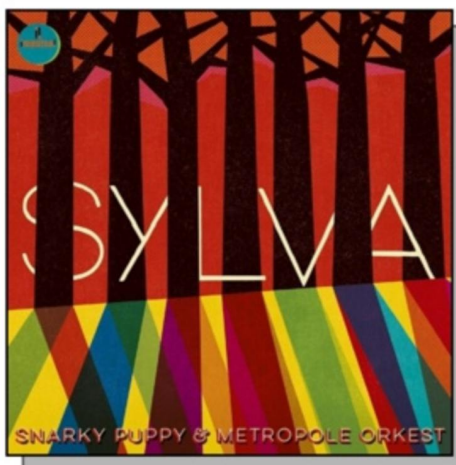

I really wish that it would have gone a little deeper into the life of Jimi Hendrix but it is what it is. Andre/Benjamin did a fantastic job as did his love interest. A fantastic movie. Well done!

Vietnam in HD

The only thing that I can say is I think they tried to do too much! Instead of being an historical documentary in HD, they tried to make it...um, entertaining? That didn't work well married to actual footage from one of America's worst wars...Skip it!

Album of the Month

This is everything that I've imagined jazz could be. I think that labeling this as a jazz album might be a bit too limiting. The tracks on Sylva, the latest offering from Snarky Puppy & Metropole Orkest is a pleasant blend of what I would consider old style jazz blended with Danny Elfman damn near Batman style arrangements, sprinkled with a little funk. As I listened I was reminded of early Prince and Herbie Hancock. The next thing I knew I'm listening to the soundtrack for a romantic drama or relaxing in the Playboy mansion - it just took me all over the place! Great CD

HOTTIE OF THE MONTH Marilyn Mosby

Marilyn Mosby is an American lawyer, currently the State's Attorney for Baltimore, Maryland. She comes from five generations in law enforcement lead by her grandfather who was one of the first African-American police officers in Massachusetts.

She became interested in studying law after her 17 year old cousin was murdered outside her home.

Most recently she charged the six police officers that were involved in the death of Freddie Gray. The 2nd TFM Hottie from Baltimore, it's a damn shame that we have to keep being introduced to these amazing women under such difficult circumstances! Marilyn Mosby is our June 2015 Hottie of the Month!

Versus And the winner is...

Rosario Dawson

When it come to Dawson's full frontal nude scene in the film Trance...

"I'd already long since made the decision to do it," Rosario told E! News.

"When you read the script beforehand and you're looking at what's required and you get why, you realize that this really is a key part to the puzzle."

When it came to showing it all in front of an entire crew.

"I was really comfortable on set that day because I knew what my mission was..."

Well Ms. Dawson, regardless of how that scene plays into the film, we consider ourselves fortunate that you were brave enough to do it...thanks!

The Aftermath

I became a fan of the fight game just as the Greatest of All Time Muhammad Ali was about two or three punches from retiring. I really wish I would have been as “logged in” when Ali was in his prime but truth be told, I was probably more interested in riding my big wheel and playing with action figures than sitting down to watch two men punch each other senseless.

When, I did “log in” I couldn’t get enough of it. I’ve watched all of the big fights.

- Leonard vs. Hearn
- Pryor vs. Arguello
- Hagler vs. Hearn
- Corrales vs. Castillo (one of the greatest fights ever)

Then there was the reign of Mike Tyson and the emergence of Bernard Hopkins in his major upset of Felix Trinidad. The list goes on and on.

As I became more submerged, I started going back and watching some of the classics.

- Joe Louis
- Ali
- Rocky Marciano
- Jack Johnson

I became a true student of the sweet science.

I would sometime watch fights - especially Tyson fights - over and over again, breaking down each punch. It was nothing for me to watch a fight four or five times just to see and be able to discuss what went wrong and what the winner did right.

I actually considered becoming a boxer for about 20 or 30 minutes before realizing that I had extreme anger issues. There was no way in the hell I would ever be able to follow a “fight plan”.

After years of watching tape, I found that I was able to break down fights, predict outcomes (if he lands (fill in the blank) this fight is over) and even somewhat accurately score a fight.

Harold Lederman ain't got shit on me.

I even amazed my kids once by predicting a knock out inside of three rounds. I could see it in the guys eyes, he didn't want to fight and looked petrified.

I will admit that NO ONE could have predicted Roy Jones Jr. being knocked out by Antonio Tarver - I totally missed that one.

I say all of this to make a point - I'M NOT AN EXPERT!

In fact, I'm far from it. I can't really say how one would become an expert so maybe to some degree I just might be close.

That said, I had a bad feeling about the Mayweather vs. Pacquiao fight from the beginning.

Why now?

Was it the fact that Pacquiao had just been knocked out COLD by Marquez with one of the luckiest punches in boxing history.

I mean really, you fight a guy four times and it almost seems like it's a given that you just might be able to take his punch.

Was Mayweather's money running low?

With Mayweather, who in my opinion hasn't been a competitive boxer for years. He shows up, runs, holds, lands a few punches and takes home a check.

Some folks call it defense...REALLY?

Take a look at four time World Champion Pernell Whitaker...that's defense.

If there was anyone that could cut off the ring with Mayweather it would be Pacquiao with his in and out Bruce Lee style offense.

Why would Mayweather take such a big chance and put his perfect 47-0 record on the line against such a battle tested opponent?

There's nothing like perfection ruined by a gut wrenching AND ONE! Just ask the New England Patriots!

Those were my FIRST set of questions!

As the fight drew closer, I found out that for the first time EVER, two major networks had somehow come together to co-sponsor a bout.

We had HBO fighter Manny Pacquiao matching up against Showtime's Mayweather.

It's not the first time it's been done, they did it for Tyson vs. Lewis and the two networks almost killed each other and the fight.

How could they work out a fight of this magnitude?

Oh, how I would have liked to be a fly on the wall of those meetings?

Speaking of meetings!

What was with the secret meeting between the two fighters, who just happened to run into each other at a basketball game.

It's rumored that it was because of that closed door meeting, that the fight actually happened.

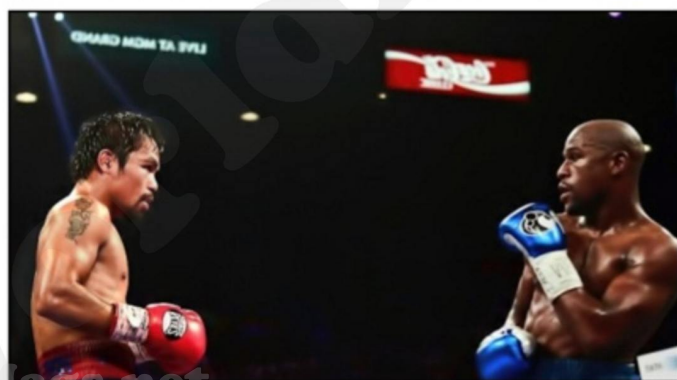

I'll come back to that!

With every big fight that I've watched in the past, I kept check for HBO's 24/7 where they follow both fighters for weeks before the fight. It's usually a four week process with each new episode airing at the end of each week.

Four weeks before the fight...nothing.

I believe (though I can't say for certain) that it didn't air until two weeks before the fight and that's being generous. I don't believe it actually aired until a little more than a week before the fight.

How could HBO not feature a four week 24/7 for one of the biggest fights EVER?

Good question.

What I did find was a lengthy documentary on Pacquiao on HBO, with very little Mayweather coverage and a Mayweather documentary on Showtime with almost no Pacquiao coverage.

That sucked!

A week before the fight, I started placing my bets, talking shit and breaking down the fight for anyone that would listen.

Manny Pacquiao is a Southpaw with a Deadly Right Hook...period. He has the speed and defense to deal with Mayweather's pot shots and unless Mayweather became a volume puncher overnight, there would be no way for him to win.

I was looking at another Pacquiao vs. De la Hoya!

It wasn't that De la Hoya wasn't a great fighter or past his prime, it was that he was being hit with so many punches from so many different angles that it was impossible for him to predict what was coming next or formulate a game plan. Manny would center him up for the straight left hand then hit him with combinations as De la Hoya did what is basic boxing and circled away from the power hand - That's Pacquiao!

His best opponents and legitimate losses came from fighters that could take a volume of punches (Marquez) and keep fighting.

Floyd is a counterpuncher. If you want to call him that. He stays in the guard, circles his opponent and looks for opportunities to land a big shot. Like cards, the best time to pull out your ace is after your opponent has shown their hand by playing their big card. So, a counterpuncher moves away from the power hand and launches their own...but what do you do with an opponent that has just as much knock out power in their off hand?

Their styles just didn't match!

I gave Manny six rounds (two rounds earlier that non-counterpuncher De la Hoya) to dispatch of Floyd Mayweather Jr.

Then I found out about the money involved!

Secondary (sold through a vendor) tickets ranged from $13k to $2k. A ringside ticket purchased straight up was about $10k.

CNN reported that ringside tickets were only available to MGM customers that had a $250k line of credit with the casino and celebrities.

Compare that with a secondary market price of about $900 for Mayweather vs. Maidana.

The cost of the pay per view was $99 for HD and $89 for standard.

What the fuck!

Knock out prediction out the door! If people actually pay these prices, this fight is either going to be decided by public opinion (meaning whoever is the least favored will win) or it's going to end in a draw.

That way, they can do it again!

There was just way too much money involved in this fight for it to be legit.

Despite that, there was this little tiny voice in the back of my head that convinced me that Manny wasn't a part of our whole capitalism system.

Maybe, just maybe he was above the whole MONEY Mayweather ideal. There was something about him that made me believe he would do his best. Or had a deal been made in that closed door meeting?

Fight Night

I spend my $99 for the pay per view...

Manny Pacquiao walks into the ring bone dry...that was my first problem. It looked like he hadn't warmed up at all.

There were no locker room shots of either fighter hitting the gloves.

Then Manny and Freddie Roach stop during the walk to the ring to take a selfie...oh, yeah I've been duped!

Then Floyd walks out bone dry!

Followed by a bunch of holding, running and air punching.

The only big moment came when Pacquiao hit Floyd with a big shot that sent him into the ropes only to be followed by what appeared to be Manny holding back his hands back while he searched for a needle somewhere on Floyd's chest.

My guest and I sat in silence.

Watching an over-hyped boxing match that had the exact same amount of drama that you might find in your average cooking show.

In the end, there wasn't a scratch on either fighter, both camps looked ecstatic and boxing fans walked away butt hurt having just been fucked big time with no Vaseline.

The Pacquiao camp saw it as a win, which I can't disagree with because I didn't have the lop sided score that the judges had...Floyd barely fought.

Either way...they are talking about doing it again in April 2016. Good luck!

In the words of George W. Bush "Fool me once, shame on...shame on you. Fool me twice...in other words, you can't get fooled again."

Because of the bullshit that went on in this fight and the amount of money that folks spent, there will never be another mega fight in the sport of boxing EVER.

If there are people out there willing to spend their money on another one, good on you but you won't get another penny from this boxing fan.

May-Pac just killed the sport.

In a crowded city at a busy bus stop, a beautiful young woman who was waiting for a bus was wearing a tight mini skirt.

As the bus stopped and it was her turn to get on, she became aware that her skirt was too tight to allow her leg to come up to the height of the first step of the bus.

Slightly embarrassed and with a quick smile to the bus driver, she reached behind her to unzip her skirt a little, thinking that this would give her enough slack to raise her leg.

Again, she tried to make the step only to discover she still couldn't.

So, a little more embarrassed, she once again reached behind her to unzip her skirt a little more, and for the second time attempted the step, and, once again, much to her dismay, she could not raise her leg.

With a little smile to the driver, she again reached behind a third time to unzip a little more and again was unable to make the step.

About this time, a large Texan who was standing behind her picked her up easily by the waist and placed her gently on the step of the bus.

She went ballistic and turned to the would be Samaritan and yelled, "How dare you touch my body! I don't even know who you are!"

The Texan smiled and drawled, "Well, ma'am, normally I would agree with you, but after you unzipped my fly three times, I kinda figured we was friends!"

Three guys die in car accident and wind up in hell. They realize where they are at and find the Devil. They plead with him, "please let us go to heaven!"

The devil comes up with an idea.

He points at a huge escalator with some of the most beautiful, hottest women you have ever seen! He says you see that escalator? If you can make it up to heaven without engaging in ANY sexual activities with any of these women then you are free to go. But if you do the nasty with any of them, then I am going to do to you something that your job on earth is related to.

The first guy goes and fucks the first chick so the devil asks what his job was. "A mechanic" he replies. So the devil rips his dick off with pliers.

The second guy goes and fucks the chick in the very middle. "A carpenter" he replies. So the devil saws his dick off.

The final guy goes and makes it to the very top when he screws the last chick.

The devil asks "Well you know the drill, what was your job?" and the guy just starts laughing his ass off!

Furious, the devil asks him why he is laughing and the guy replies "I'm a fucking blow pop tester!"

A: Because she got an "F" in sex.

Three women were sitting in a bar, (burnette, red-head, and a blonde) they were all pregnant.

The brunette says, "I know what I'm going to have." The other two asked how. She replied, "Well I was on top when I conceived so I will have a baby boy".

The red head said, "If your logic is correct then I will have a baby girl because I was on the bottom when I conceived.

The blonde starts crying and orders another shot and starts screaming, "PUPPIES, PUPPIES!"

A guy walks into a bar and orders a triple scotch.

The bartender pours him the drink and the guy downs it in one gulp. "Wow", says the bartender, "Something bad must have happened".

Yeah it did, he said. "I came home early today, went up to the bedroom, and found my wife having sex with my best friend."

The bartender pours the guy another triple shot. "This one's on the house". The dude gulps it down once again. The bartender asks "Did you say anything to your wife ?

" The guy answers "Yea, I walked up to her, told her to pack her bag's and get out !"

"What about your friend ?" asks the bartender. "I looked him straight in the eye and said BAD DOG"

A woman is in a coma, and the nurse tending to her notices that whenever she is sponge bathing the woman, the woman's vital signs jump a little on all of the machines and screens. So the nurse calls the husband and says 'come down to the hospital, I think i know how to get your wife out of this coma.' so the husband hurries down, and asks the nurse what he can do. The nurse says, ' I think that oral sex will bring her out of her coma, it will arouse her enough to bring her out of the coma.' so the nurse closes the curtains, and leaves the husband with his wife in the room.

Moments later, the man comes running out of the room, flustered. The nurse, worried, asks him what happened. the husband says, 'I don't know, I think that she started choking.'

Fun Sex Facts & Figures

- Women are more willing to commit adultery during their ovulation than at any other time throughout their cycle—most notably due to their bodies' desire to fertilize the ovulated egg.
- Contrary to what men and women are led to believe, the size of a man's penis fully erect is not really that important. Besides, the average length of an erect penis is 5.6 inches.
- In case you were wondering, there is enough sperm in one single man to impregnate every woman on the planet who is fertile.
- Humans are not the only ones interested in performing oral sex, wolves, bears and bats are also known to participate in the practice quite often.
- While many know that chocolate can be an excellent arousal for having sex, apparently the smell of pumpkin can help increase the blood flow to the penis to encourage an erection.

HW: What is it about being a “pin-up girl” that seems to be the ultimate fantasy for so many women? It must be in our DNA!

DD: Definitely the glamour! Not all women dreamt about becoming a princess growing up - far from it- but many of us like to feel feminine and pampered and be proud of our womanhood regardless of the skin we're in. Pin-up art is related to the burlesque scene, fashion and the Golden Age of Hollywood so I think that's why. The tides have turned and women know these days that they are just as strong being feminine as being masculine - and all the areas in between and beyond. It's about embracing yourself and not apologizing for wanting to wear a tiara occasionally. I did while giving birth. ;)

HW: Wow, wearing a tiara during childbirth is a definitely a hardcore commitment to glamor at all times lol! You not only do pin-ups of women, but also couples and a few guys, too. I love your “drag” pin-up of LouLou Blu!

DD: I love over the top glamour and "more is more" and nothing beats drag when it comes to that. Regarding couples, I really enjoy portraying love and regardless who you love or why, it deserves to get celebrated.

HW: Hmmm, I think “more is more” is my new motto! I notice that a lot of the pin-ups you do are somewhat in the style of the classic Playboy bunny. Has Playboy influenced you?

DD: I have actually never held a copy in my hand so I can't say it has, but something about the classic Playboy bunny appeals to me. They show off their curves without showing too much. Just perfect! Sexy and classy.

HW: Is there a particular artist or mentor in the art world that you admire?

DD: I admire many artists, but haven't been influenced by anyone in particular. My favorite has always been the Swedish classical painter Anders Zorn. Such raw talent! I would say films, music and fashion has been my mentor through my art. We pick up things subconsciously, so who knows where it comes from? It's a mystery. The artists I admire the most are technically skilled in a way I wish I were or the ones who create tacky art I personally don't think has quality but still keep pushing it out there, producing loads of it, promoting it and selling the hell out of it. It's very rare to be a great artist and a great sales person at the same time.

HW: If you had unlimited time and money, what would your “dream” artistic project be?

DD: I have more ideas than I could accomplish in this lifetime. One can always dream, but success will never suddenly fall in your lap without years of hard work and learning to overcome failures. My ultimate dream would be to be able to live off my personal work, which I rarely have the time to create, so I could be the master of my own time, challenge myself, grow and develop artistically. I have so much to learn and would love to become a total badass at pin-up art! I'd love to paint large oils and sculpt! Hands on kind of stuff.

The Pinups of DarlinDesign

At TFM, we're passionate about glamor, especially pin-up glamour! DarlinDesign, based in UK/London, is owned by professional artists Linda and Darren Jackson. In this exclusive interview with the uniquely talented Linda, you'll discover how she has taken her love of pin-up art to a very personal level!

HW: Welcome to Top Floor, Linda! Tell us a bit about your background and how your design company got started.

DD: Thank you. I'm one of those people who always had a huge artistic calling but lived in denial because you "had to have a real job" so although I've always been creative, sometimes a decade passed without any art whatsoever. Moving to London and meeting my partner changed all that and I finally got the confidence to really try it to see if it would work.

DD: It wasn't a plan from the beginning, as we create many kinds of art, but ended up that way by chance. Or fate? I've always been a huge lover of vintage and glamor so pin-up art ended up to fit somehow.

HW: As I hinted in the intro, you've taken pin-up to a personalized level. One of the most interesting parts of your company is that you create awesome customized pin-up art using a client's photo. I absolutely love this idea and it's obviously a very popular part of your business. You are one busy lady! So, how do you create a custom pin-up?

DD: This is something I recently started and it has grown very popular. I create a pin-up based on instructions from the client or sometimes I get full artistic freedom with it. I sketch out an interpretation based on face pictures of the client and a description of the body type they prefer. This way every pin-up becomes unique.

After that, the client gets to ask for changes or give the go ahead before I complete it.

HW: I adore the ultra-glam pin-ups you do for your clients!

What are some of your favorite or most memorable pin-up commissions?

DD: I love them all. They all have a story. My favorites are the really over the top glamorous ones, but the most memorable are the ones of women with newfound confidence who have decided to give themselves a boost and focus on themselves for once.

HW: Well, from what I've seen, you already ARE a badass of pin-up! Being in business for yourself is such a huge challenge, there's so much competition, what advice would you give to artists struggling to get their work noticed by a bigger audience?

DD: Be persistent. Show your art everywhere and to everyone even if you think it's shit. You have to learn to not take failures personally and learn how to rise after every fall. You have to know in your heart that this is what you want to do in life. It's not only a career, it's a way of life and if you're not fully into it you'll still be asked to work long hours for "great exposure" which will burn you out and get you nowhere. You need to value yourself, work on your flaws to improve and never give up. Being an artist is very hard work but also incredibly fulfilling. Some artists are lucky, freak talents or end up creating their "holy grail" who gets them noticed by a fluke... But for me personally, I had to give up my social life fully, no holidays and learn how to stretch a penny in every way and I'm only in the beginning of my journey.

HW: In addition to pin-up art, what other types of art do you do at DarlinDesign?

DD: We are very flexible and cover many styles and techniques so it's a difficult question to answer. I would say anything. As long as it's figurative. Abstract or minimal isn't our cup of tea. In the past we have created mannequin heads for jewelry and hat displays, written music, illustrated books and graphic novels, designed dresses, logos, film posters etc.

HW: What are your future goals for DarlinDesign? Any new projects you'd like to promote/share?

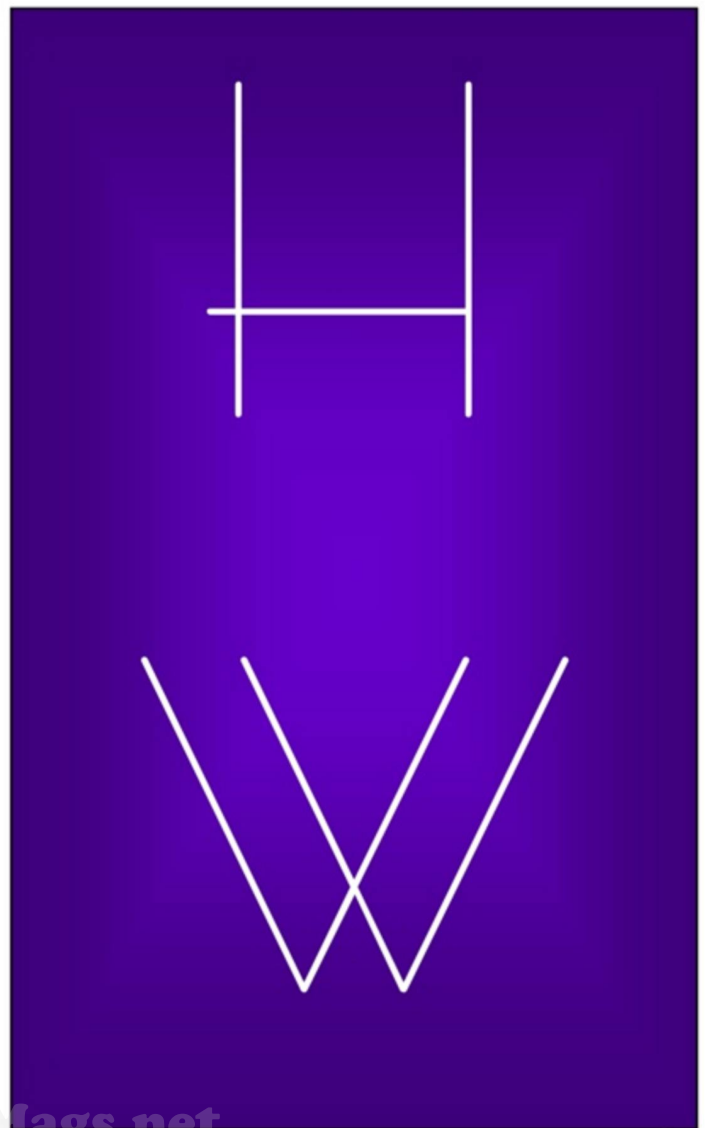

DD: Our immediate goal is to continue on the path we recently started with the customized pin-ups and to grow. I'd like to start up my mannequin pin-up head sculptures for jewelry and hat display again which has been pushed aside for quite a while and create some new personal work. Taking part in a pin-up art exhibition again would be awesome!

HW: I'm sure there's tons of people who would love having you transform them into a sexy pin-up girl (or guy!) Where can fans of your art get in touch with DarlinDesign?

Jack Watson's Complete Guide To Creating

Black and White
Female
Glamour
Images From Nudes To Fashion

By Jack Watson

Award-winning photographer Jack Watson has crafted a unique book dedicated to female glamour images created in black and white to honor the famous Hollywood stills photographers of the 1920's and 30's. With the help of a large collection of stunning glamour models who have been featured globally in many print, web, and video media including Playboy Enterprises™, Watson shows you how he creates sensuous, seductive glamour black and white images out of virtually any color glamour photograph. Dispelling the myth that not all color images make good black and white images, this book illustrates how virtually any glamour photo can be converted to create the look of the Hollywood masters.

Jack Watson's Complete Guide to Creating Black and White Female Glamour Images includes a CD with every photo in the book. All of the black and white photos started out as color digital files. They have been provided in their original color form for your unrestricted non-commercial use. This book is for those who have some basic Photoshop skills and want to broaden their horizons and experiment with additional plug-ins and software such as Nik Color Efex Pro Complete, Nik Silver Efex Pro, Topaz Adjust, and Topaz BW Effects. It's also for anyone who just loves looking at beautiful black and white female glamour images.

While most of the images in the book are "sexy" in nature, a number of examples show how sexy is not always the naked truth, but quite the contrary. Clothed or nude, the female form is a thing of beauty. At the very least, this book will make you rethink what is truly glamorous. Creating black and white glamour photos will help you see with your brain and feel with your heart. Remember it's not what you see in a photograph that moves you; it's what you don't see. So, boot up your computer, open your favorite photo software, and put the CD in the drive, and create some magic.
